Support Documentation Added to Admin Home Page

Support documents, instruction manuals, and user guides have been added to the Admin Home page to assist you in running your InvestorBridge site.

Enhancements

Private Site Changed to Full Screen Editor. The private site is now a full page administration portal. Attached with the notes for this release is the InvestorBridge Administrator navigation guide, which has been included to help you find the functionality you need on your InvestorBridge site.

Here is a brief summary of the navigation guide:

- The Login page to the private site has changed to resemble the login page for the Backstop application.
- Your website pages can now be edited by visiting the Web Pages tab or through the Admin Home page, and clicking Edit Content.
- The Masquerade function has been replaced by the Preview as User function. To Preview a User, go to Site Users/User List and click the  icon next to the user you wish to view. Your individual user session will open in a new browser window, where you can preview site changes before they are published. Your administrator session will remain open in your main browser window, so you can continue to make site edits as necessary. To view another user, simply go back to Site Users/User List and click the  icon next to the new user. Switching between user views will log out the previous user's session and will open the new user's session in the same browser window as the previous user.
- Downloading and publishing data can still be accessed through the Manage Data page.
- There is also a new Admin Home page with release notes and support documents. For more information on other InvestorBridge functionality locations, please consult the InvestorBridge Administrator navigation guide.

Performance Enhancements

Changes have been made to the InvestorBridge platform to increase the speed and performance of the site. This enhancement does not include the speed of downloads or publishes, but rather the load times of pages and tables.

Issue Resolutions

- The issue where Backstop benchmarks appeared to be downloading, but were not, has been resolved.
- Document table pagination has been fixed to ensure that all results can be scrolled through properly, even if the last page is not fully populated with results.
- Editing document blocks is no longer available while previewing as another user in InvestorBridge.
- When clicking on the "Forgot Password" link, users no longer need to correctly capitalize email addresses to have their passwords emailed out correctly.
